Now, let's put everything together . . . One more time!

Nice Things to Do for People

There are many nice things we can do for people, but I feel these three are particularly special. For one thing, you can call a sick classmate who has missed school to see how he is feeling. Have homework assignments ready to give him. Deliver any messages from other class members.

Another idea is to offer to teach one of your friends how to do something you know about. Perhaps this person has admired a scarf you have knitted. You could give a brief demonstration and follow this up with working with your friend as he or she learns to knit.
